

Song About Me

Don Henry

People ask, they always do
"Say Donny, are your songs all true?"
And I say "Hell no"
But here's one about me

I make love, I eat food
And write songs when I'm in the mood
Like this one, this song about me

I was born a Capricorn
The day before New Years Eve
A bit premature, they had the nerve
To cut off my penis sleeve

My dad was giggin' with a road band
When the friggin' shit hit the fan
This shit about me

I'm five-eight give or take
Got them big brown eyes
And fluctuating weight
But that's another song about me

I like James and Joni
And those Fab Four songs
Nillsson, Newman, Elton John
And Jimmy Webb should write a song about me

In seventy-four I went to the store
With all that I could afford
I bought and I took this Paul Simon book
And learned all the Mel Bay chords

Lost my virginity 'neath the west coast moon
And that prompted me to write some tunes
Like this one, this song about me

Had a wife then a girlfriend
A daughter, a son and that's volume one
Of this song, this song about me
